Letter From the Executive Director

Art invites conversation, laughter, storytelling, and a sense of belonging to the refugee communities.

As ARTTogether's first year draws to a close, I look back with pride on how much we have been able to accomplish in such a short time. The year began in the wake of the shocking election of Donald Trump in November, 2016. Like many citizens, I was horrified by the then - president - elect's flagrant misogyny and anti - immigration campaign platform. It was then on the eve of the Women's March in January, 2017, that the idea for ARTTogether was born.

As the Trump administration continues to undermine the U.S. refugee program, I feel increasing urgency to find ways to support the refugee communities. These are people that have over come extreme trauma and tremendous hardship - first in their home countries and then in transtion. Many refugees have been forced to leave their lives, homes, and families, by factors entirely beyond their control. They face many more obstacles as they begin the process of starting over in a new country.

I myself entered the United States as a refugee in 2004, resettling in California. Guided by my experience, I felt that art could provide a simple and unstigmatized path toward healing for the refugees of my own community. However, I discovered that, while many organizations in the San Francisco Bay Area brought art programs to youth and low - income residents, there was no mechanism which linked such programs to refugees, and no programs that accommodated many of these communities' quite specific needs.

With the help, support, and encouragement of many friends, I created ARTogether to fill this void. ARTogether is a creative arts resource center for refugees and refugee artists. We provide art workshops, and facilitate social gatherings, family picnics, and other community - building activities. We aim to raise awareness, and to foster relationships based on understanding and acceptance between the refugee community and the broader public. We also support refugee artists who might otherwise find it impossible to sustain their work after resettlement. We provide assistance with grants, free space to practice art, and a platform to showcase creative work .

Since our first event in June, ARTogether has offered 36 workshops and social gatherings, involving over 100 refugees. We have partnered with four different refugee agencies in three different counties in the Bay Area. Nearly all of our instructors belong to under represented groups: immigrants, refugees, people of color, and women; and all are paid by ARTogether. In spite of limited resources, we established non - profit legal status, applied for non - profit tax status, created legally binding contracts for our teachers and consultants, and established accounting and finance platforms. This report will summarize many of these accomplishments.

The reaction and support of our friends and community have been overwhelming, and we are truly heartened by the encouragement that we have received. Having had a glimpse of what we can accomplish, we believe more than ever in ARTogether's impact and potential. I expect this to be only the first of many annual reports we will send you, as we continue to cross challenging milestones and touch beautiful lives.

Future Plans

Fundraising

Grants

ARTTogether's mission and non - profit status make us eligible for various federal, local, and private grants. We will seek consultants and interns to assist us with completion and submission of grant proposals.

Investors

With non - profit tax status, we hope to attract long - term investors in social impact. We will benefit from professional leadership in these fundraising efforts. ARTTogether will use a portion of these funds to sponsor individual workshops and projects.

Donations

We will continue to collect donations through our webpage, and other online tools. Toplatforms.

Online market

ARTTogether will market a selection of participants' art pieces, with the dual purpose to raise funds for ARTTogether and to introduce participants to the marketing process. We will also invite local artists to market partial sales of their work for donation to ARTTogether.

As we grow our creative arts programs for the general refugee community, we are developing services for refugees who were artists by profession in their countries of origin. These artists face numerous obstacles to practicing art after resettlement, especially in a location as prohibitively expensive as the Bay Area.

Support and celebrate refugee artists

ARTogether plans to offer a range of resources to assist refugee artists who are starting over in the Bay Area. We want to provide them with access to a network of established resident artists, as well as assistance in applying for funding that supports their creative work. We have embarked on this mission by hiring immigrants, refugees, and asylees with professional art backgrounds to be instructors for ARTogether's workshops.
